506 Distillery Emergencies – Response and Prepared Awareness

With the expansion of the distillery industry in the Commonwealth, this course will provide a basic awareness of the different types of emergencies that your department may respond to within the distillery industry. This course will, among other topics, serve to educate those on basic firefighting tactics in the distillery industry, fire characteristics of burning alcohol, bourbon industry terminology, and a review of the different types of building construction found within the distilling industry in Kentucky. Students will also learn about pre-planning and basic preparedness steps they can take with their local distilleries to be more equipped to handle large scale events.

This 1-day course will be offered Saturday.

Co-Instructor: Tate Preston, Health and Safety Manager: James B. Beam Distilling Company.
